IRAN WAR: MARCH 2026

03.03.26

Since we do not know to what extent the current situation could affect our supply chain and in particular in regards to shipping between borders, as well as material productions globally.

Bondline has a very strong supply chain and knowledge of where our products are manufactured. We have general high stocks of all ESD consumables.

We confirm we have no source or supply shortage or high threat to our product supply. None of our products are manufactured or originate from Iran or the Middle East. We do not know the uncertainties of the situation just like everyone else.

We cannot be certain lead times will not be impacted due to shipping logistics but rest assured none of our supply is in the current impacted countries. Our stock items remain at high levels and we will do all we can to ensure our supply chain remains unaffected.

We recommend placing orders well in advance and holding contingency stocks to avoid any disruptions to productions.
